Play Approval Process

All plays selected for a DCG Drama production will be required to go through the following approval process:

A variety of styles should be performed over a four – five year rotation.

Plays should be age appropriate – and have a message that supports school's mission

For high school:

- very limited use of obscenities,
- limited to very mild sexual innuendos and should be considered.
- Two to three plays should be reviewed for possible selection with samples provided one month prior to auditions.
- Drama instructor and two other teachers who have experience with productions will read through the play.
- The three will reach consensus on the play to be performed.

For all levels:

- Sample scripts ordered through requisition process for review.
  - Synopsis of the play will be provided to the activities director and principal for approval.
  - Play will be ordered through the requisition process.
  - All copyright and contractual conditions must be followed.
