Collaboration

Our team successfully completed ISASP testing, and it truly took a collective effort to ensure the process was carried out with integrity. Our lower grade level teams played an important role in maintaining a calm and quiet building environment, allowing our 3rd and 4th grade teams to administer the assessments in a focused and uninterrupted setting. This level of collaboration across all staff ensured that each student had an optimal environment for testing. We are grateful for the teamwork and shared commitment that made this a success.

A big thanks to Dr. Carenza for his leadership and organization to make this a very smooth process!!

Innovation

Supportive

Inclusive

DCE recently held our final PRIDE assembly to celebrate our students and staff. Mr. Snow helped emcee the event, providing a great opportunity for students, staff, and families to meet and connect with him. It was a wonderful celebration that included two special performances; a group of fourth grade girls performed a dance routine they created on their own, and our first graders shared a poem.

As this was my final assembly as principal at DCE, it was a bittersweet experience. I will deeply miss this dedicated staff and our incredible students. Serving this school community has truly been one of the greatest highlights of my career.

Passionate	Note from an interventionist: I would like to thank the district for sending the Title I reading interventionists to the Title I Conference in Wisconsin April 8, 9, and 10. We had three amazing speakers - Dr. Matthew Burns, Dr. Timothy Shanahan, and Dr. Anita Archer! It was such a valuable experience to learn directly from the professionals and meet them in person (instead of just reading their books and watching their videos). It was a valuable time to collaborate with colleagues from not only our district, but other school districts as well. Thank you again! I appreciate it and can't wait to share what I've learned and apply it in my teaching! Audrey Stine
