Notation File Agreement

This Notation File Agreement (this "agreement") is made effective as of _____ (date) between Dallas Center - Grimes (school/group) and Box Six (copyright owner).

The parties agree as follows:

Grant of License: Box Six as composers of the original composition and/or arrangement of Metalix (show name), grant the above listed school/group a one-time license to access to the notation files for the music for one competitive marching band season. The school/group has permission to edit and/or arrange the music as needed with the revised version herein referred to as the "derivative work." Box Six retains the title and ownership of the original composition along with the full rights to the derivative work. The author/arranger retains the rights to any previously copyrighted material outside the derivative work, while Box Six own the rights to this arrangement.

Edited Files: Any edits made to the original music must retain the following information on all parts and scores:

- Original Show Name (can be listed in addition to revised show name)
- Composed by Ian Grom & John Mapes (can list additional names as arrangers for edits)
- Copyright ASCAP year

A final copy of the derivative work must be emailed in a single pdf file (including all movements) to rochelle@box-six.com.

Limited Term Use: The school/group has permission to access and edit the notation files for the show from the time of purchase through the completion of one competitive marching band season, ending on or before January 1, 2027. By this date, all original notation files and edited files must be deleted, destroyed, and made unavailable for future use.

Distribution: Notation files may only be provided to the director and arrangers who will directly be making edits to the music and may not be distributed to the general staff or students. The school/group has permission to distribute paper copies and/or pdf files of the derivative work (including parts, scores, mp3's, etc) to the staff and students/members of the performance group only and only within the limited term of use. The derivative work may not be re-sold, shared outside the group, used in future seasons, or utilized for any other purpose.

Fees: The school/group agrees to pay a fee of $200 for a one-time license to access to the notation files for one competitive marching band season.

Signatures: Any director/arranger who will have access to notation files must read and agree to the above terms by signing below.
