Late-night games and cafeteria jokes,
Dreams written down in notebook quotes.
Every class and crowded cheer
Built the courage that brought you here.

Then came caps tossed high in the sky,
Tears and smiles and long goodbyes.
The world stretched wide beyond those doors,
Calling you toward something more.

New cities, new faces, roads unknown,
Finding your strength out on your own.
But deep inside, you'll always see
High school adventures shaped who you'd be.

Wishing you endless adventures, and always finding your way home.
