

Human Resources Board Report March 2026

Collaborative - Passionate - Inclusive - Supportive - Innovative

Jami Boege and I attended the Iowa State Career Fair and were overly impressed with the teaching candidates coming out of their school. We left with several resumes and will be connecting with individuals soon as more of our positions are posted.

We continue to be blown away by how far our reputation reaches, as the college students were all familiar with our district and had great things to say. This was definitely a fun day for us!

We're in peak hiring season and continue to be thrilled with our candidate pools and have made some very high quality additions to our various teams. More to come over the next few weeks as movement occurs. We are still in need of a few special education teachers throughout the district ... tell your friends!

We will begin the process of revamping our evaluation system in Frontline Education. We will implement the work that Dr. Carenza, Mrs. Olson and their teams have done with Stronge Instructional Framework over the last two years. The TQ team is leading this transition and we're excited about how efficient the system will be for everyone.

Vector is going to be a catalyst for annual training again. Our staff will be receiving renewal notices over the next few months and we have identified times for both our classified and certified staff to work on those as the year comes to a close to lighten their load in August when we get ready for 2026-27(!!!)

We will again be working with Qualtrics to give an end-of-the-year engagement survey to our staff. We are intentionally implementing a few things to help our staff feel more engaged. You have seen evidence of Creator Awards making an impact, and our teams will be digging into Leader Rounding over the summer to increase safe, planned and predictable conversations between staff in hopes to increase transparency and in turn trust. We know higher staff engagement increases retention and helps "spread the word" that DCG is the premiere place to work.
